Classes

Card: This class represents a playing card, including suits and value. It is used for getting a card's value and displaying its information

Deck: This class can shuffle the deck and deal cards to players

Player: Represents a player in the game. Cards can be added to the player's hand, calculated to get the total value and displayed to the player.

Game: This class is the main conductor of the game. It controls the flow of the game, initializes the deck and players, and manages player actions such as hitting or standing, including evaluating win conditions.

Dealer: It inherits the Player class and handles displaying the first card of the dealer's hand and making decisions
